

ArtSeed Fine Arts Summer Intensive 2024

This in-person fine arts summer camp is led by experienced teaching artists and distinguished guest presenters. It gives highly motivated children, and youth, opportunities to learn both experimental and traditional fine arts skills, showcased in a public exhibition. They will also be invited to ask questions, and express concerns over current events affecting their communities. We will explore artists who have made history or who have shed light on controversial topics that youngsters may also choose to explore through writing and visual arts media such as charcoal drawing, oil painting, collage, and photography.
